The current settlement with Microsoft is more than fair. As a consumer, Microsoft has let the cat out of the bag with the concept of "a PC in every household". Due to their Marketing vision, I can now buy more computer for less money than I ever thought possible.

The current action by the few states remaining seems to me to be self-serving for the benefit of the state coffers with little regard for the consumer. Enough is enough. Lets get on with product innovation and let the market decide what has the products I want.
